Families review Camp Will...

"My son loves the weeklong kids camp at Door Shakespeare. He's been doing it for the past two years, and before that he was extremely afraid of any kind of stage work. It helped him get over that fear and now he does musicals and can play guitar and sing in front of a crowd without any hesitation!"

—Michael Marit, Camp Will parent

"It's a wonderful and fun program! I can't believe how quickly my grandchildren learned the language."

—Dennis Gordon, Camp Will grandpa

"Door Shakespeare gives me a chance to express myself in a close-knit environment. I've played Olivia from Twelfth Night and a witch from Macbeth, and it was so much fun!"

—Rose Schnorr, Camp Will camper

"It was an experience that continues to guide and motivate me to this day."

—Olivia Peters, Camp Will graduate

"I loved working with all the professional actors and I also made lots of new friends at camp. I can't wait for next summer!"

—Beatrix Dramm, Camp Will camper

About Camp Will

Camp Will is a weeklong workshop dedicated to nurturing young people's ability to voice their opinions, communicate their thoughts, and discover their creativity through ensemble work and the poetry of Shakespeare.

Daily sessions begin with theatre and improv games. Groups work independently in separate ensembles to approach Shakespeare's works through rhythm, playful language exercises, and story drama. Older students work more intensely on vocal and physical techniques that enrich the meaning of Shakespeare's text.
